

Bijlage D Lijst met voor bijen aantrekkelijke gewassen Versie 01 juli 2011

In bijgaande lijst staan een aantal gewassen opgesomd die aantrekkelijk zijn voor bijen: ze worden bevrogen voor het verzamelen van nectar en/of stuifmeel. Deze lijst is in ontwikkeling en kan regelmatig aangepast worden.

Crops used by honeybees for pollen or nectar collection

These crops are attractive for honeybees unless flowering is avoided and extrafloral nectaries do not occur or are avoided.

Field crops

Soft fruit: berry, strawberry, blackberry, raspberry

Top fruit: apple, cherry, pear, plum

Vegetables: asparagus, gherkin, beans, courgette, broad beans.

Arable crops: Chinese radish, phacelia, caraway, white clover, lupine, lucerne, oilseed rape and mustard seed etc., evening primrose, field bean, flax, sunflower maize

Flower bulbs: crocus, hyacinth, (botanic) tulip and miscellaneous bulbs and corms.

Summer flowers.

Seed production of various vegetables, herbs and flowers, including: endive, brassicae, leek, onion, chicory, carrot.

Nursery stock, public parks and gardens.

Under protection

Vegetables and fruit: blackberry, raspberry, strawberry, berries, peach, plum, gherkin, courgette, aubergine, sweet pepper and melon.

Seed production of various vegetables, herbs and flowers, including: endive, asparagus, gherkin, brassicae, chicory and carrot.

Appendix

Tree species that are important nectar plants and that are sometimes treated with Plant protection products against insects: lime, willow.

Weeds that are important nectar plants and that are sometimes treated with Plant protection products: dandelion, creeping thistle, and weeds growing in agricultural crops (e.g. redshank, sheep sorrel).